HELLO

FROM BRITTA MALY

CHILDREN'S MINISTRY DIRECTOR

This summer, get ready to fly off the rails!

It's been said that, for parents, the days feel long but the years feel short. I think we can all agree that both the days AND this year have felt especially long for those of us experiencing quarantine and social distancing with kids.

So why "flying junction?" In the railroad industry, a flying junction is an arrangement of tracks that allows trains to merge or cross on different levels without crossing opposing traffic. Basically, it's social distancing, but train-style.

Although social distancing has closed or postponed many traditional summer activities, we wanted to offer families something to look forward to. That's why we hope you'll sign your kids up for one of our Flying Junction mini camps. Inside this brochure you'll find a variety of hobby and skill-based weekly day camps starting July 13-August 6. The goal is to give kids a VBS/camp-like experience while following safety protocols. In other words, experience camp without too much crossing traffic.

This summer's going to be a wild ride. Claim your ticket now!
